You can manually adjust the output path and name of the files. The Convert Image tool can be used to convert any file type to any file type, but the standard modes of operation allow you to convert images to GIF, JPG, JPEG, PNG, BMP, WMF and TIFF formats. You can also choose the output size, along with the desired compression level. The software makes it possible to convert images in resolution up to the 16384 x 16384 pixel. You can quickly select images based on the type (or file extension), file size and date added. The batch mode allows you to convert a lot of files at once. The standard parameters of conversion are available. You can choose between a lossless or lossy compression method, and select the desired quality level.
