Category:Microsoft operating systems Category:Microsoft Windows Category:Windows 10 Category:Windows 7 so, it's not an upgrade. It's a fresh install. see the user profile icon on the desktop? it shows the new user profile just like the old clean install. that's a fresh install. also, here's the new version: A: i finally found a new fresh clean install. going from Windows 7 Home Premium x64 architecture to Windows 7 Professional x64 architecture. what i expected was the new build to be better than the old one which comes with a lot more pre-loaded software. it didn't but it sure is a new fresh clean install without any software bundled. awesome. Q: Exclude pages that require authentication from ajax requests I have a function that performs search through all files that require authentication on the current server. I would like to exclude any pages that I have disabled for authentication. I could probably do it in PHP, and just use either $_SERVER['REQUEST_URI'], or get $_SERVER['HTTP_X_REQUESTED_WITH'], but I'd rather it be done in javascript. Any ideas would be much appreciated. function perform_search() { $rk = 0; $search_type = 'files'; $select_type = 'files'; $order_by = 'id'; $order = 'ASC'; $filter = ''; $return_type = 'xml'; if (!isset($_GET['ignore_list'])) { $ignore_list = 'Y'; }
